

ASKS PENNA. SUPREME COURT FOR WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS TO STAY EXECUTION OF DAVID DARCY; PLEA IS "UNUSUAL"

Margiotti Petitions Appellate Court to Assume Original Jurisdiction, and To Have Darcy Released From Rockview Penitentiary Death House

By International News Service

PHILADELPHIA, Apr. 9—Attorney Charles J. Margiotti today asked the State Supreme Court for a writ of habeas corpus to stay the execution of David Darcy, one of three Philadelphians slated to die in the electric chair this week. Margiotti's unusual plea petitioned the Appellate Court to assume original jurisdiction and to have Darcy released from the Rockview Penitentiary death house. The former State's attorney general also requested the tribunal to set time and place for hearing of testimony in support of his petition.

Gov. John S. Fine has directed that Darcy, Harold Foster, 26, and Harry Zietz, 21, must go to the chair for a 1947 tavern holdup murder in Feasterville, Pa. Pleas to the U. S. District Court, which has scheduled a habeas corpus hearing tomorrow, have held up the execution at least until Thursday. The men have had eight reprieves from death so far.

Margiotti directed today's request for a writ against Dr. John W. Claudy, warden of Western State Penitentiary, where Darcy, Foster and Zietz are awaiting execution. The State Supreme Court has already turned down petitions for a writ of certiorari by Darcy's attorneys, who also include Philadelphia County Commissioner Morton Witkin and J. Dress Pannell, of Harrisburg.

Margiotti has indicated that if all appeals in Commonwealth Courts

REIGN OF CHAOS

The extent of the quarrels and disunity in the Truman Administration is well illustrated in the recent MacArthur episode.

General MacArthur is the officially designated leader of the United Nations troops in the Korean area. As part of our contribution to the U. N. program, our government surrendered some of its own direct control over the general. If this set-up means anything, it isn't just a piece of stage-setting and a fraud, then MacArthur's instructions ought to come through the U. N. and not direct from President Truman, Dean Acheson or Secretary Marshall.

Yet the Truman Administration is making a mockery of this situation by openly rebuking, repudiating and belittling the man whom the U. N. has entrusted with the great responsibilities of the Far-East crisis.

Not only is the White House by-passing the entire U. N. structure it is committed to support, but it is settling the issues raised by General MacArthur on the basis of the rankest and most obvious personal equations.

It has become a question, not of whether General MacArthur is right or wrong, but of whether the Pentagon, citadel of the military minds usually referred to as "brass hats," is going to be undisputed boss of every detail of a war under way at the exact opposite extreme of the globe.

In two recent instances, General MacArthur has been publicly humiliated by the White House and its confidants, without the courtesy of a simplest explanation of why he was considered to be wrong.

First was MacArthur's call upon the Chinese Reds to surrender. The State Department and the Pentagon, obviously encouraged by Mr. Truman, promptly repudiated this. Apparently it was their position that if the Chinese Reds were going to surrender, it could be only on

TOKYO, Apr. 9—Chinese Red troops opened North Korea's huge Hwachon Dam and reservoir today, loosing a raging flood in a desperate but futile attempt to halt the United Nations offensive. By nightfall the deluge already had begun to ebb after thousands of tons of angry waters roared down upon American and Thailand columns as they neared the hydroelectric pool, 10 miles above Parallel 38, in the east-central sector. A U. S. Senator Martin Criticizes Truman for RFC Conditions

WASHINGTON, Apr. 9—(INS)—Sen. Edward Martin (R) Penna., criticized President Truman for failing to "clean house" in the wake of the investigation of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

"The President has taken on action," Martin said, "in the face of plain evidence that political influence and favoritism were bought and sold in the granting of loans running into millions of dollars."

Martin charged, in a week-end broadcast, that the chief executive has "closed his eyes to the deep freeze deal, the milk coat episode, the free Florida vacations and the operations of influence peddlers who claimed White House connections."

Referring to Kefauver Committee disclosures, Martin said the President could "strike an effective blow" against organized racketeers by requiring them to file accurate and detailed income tax reports.

He called for Federal legislation making it a criminal offense to place or accept bets and transmit information across state lines to be used in gambling establishments.

Martin also recommended establishment of a crime investigation commission to advise of further legislation to wipe out crime syndicates.

Martin said he agreed with FBI Director Hoover's statement that "if the laws against gambling were earnestly and vigorously enforced, organized gambling could be eliminated within 48 hours in every community throughout the land."

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By Walter Kiernan (Distributed by International News Service)

Who says we're not geared for war? Reuther has asked for 15 million dollars for domestic fighting alone.

And right now the UAW probably has got a better looking set of books than the USA.

I hear Snyder doesn't know whether he could do better selling war bonds or getting a checkoff at General Motors.

All I know is that for all its big treasury the UAW has fallen into the USA pattern . . . the more it gets the higher it boosts the assessment.

Not all the members are enthusiastic about paying higher dues to the UAW, but they're conditioned for it by their relationship to the larger union . . . the USA.

But it was nice of the Administration to admit it made a six billion error in the blue ink. . . . Later it may even explain the red ink.

Of course this unexpected surplus will be no problem to the Administration . . . just hand it to the RFC.

THE WASTE OF WAR

A report presented by the Senate Banking Committee to its parent body contains some painful facts.

According to the committee report, a tank plant to be operated by the Chrysler Corporation in Delaware will have "a structure heavy enough to bear the loads of cranes needed to carry the parts of these giant tanks through the assembly line."

This is another way of saying that military planners are fully aware the nation must compete with the best any potential enemy has to offer in the form of weapons.

The painful news is that none of the existing weapons plants, either old or new, is "structurally capable" of handling the greatly increased size and weight of many of our new defense products.

The question that immediately presents itself is why World War II plants cannot be remodeled or converted. The report answers this by stating that radical changes in design, and the manufacturing problems that follow, have made it more practical and presumably less expensive to start from scratch.

Here again is an illustration of the massive waste of war. A plant, and its community, already standing somewhere in the U. S. heartland must be abandoned for a new and costly facility in Delaware. Of course, this has been the case in every war. Its impact is greater now because wars are coming closer together.

WHEELS A-TURNING

Anybody who drives a car around without a spare tire is a fool, or such a reasonable facsimile that he is in danger of being taken for one. But now the government, through the National Production Authority, has forbidden automobile manufacturers to deliver more than four tires with a new car.

This is supposed to save rubber. If enough purchasers are fools, it probably will.

The NPA order—obviously concocted by a bureaucrat who had wheels a-turning within wheels—stops short of requiring motorists to be fools. There is nothing to keep a car purchaser from buying a new tire separately, and most of them probably will. The main effect of the order is to make it a little harder, or at least more inconvenient, not to be a fool. For if people refuse to be fools, how is the order to save rubber?

The new-car purchaser may, of course, buy a second-hand tire for his spare. That will result in a temporary saving of rubber. But if it is assumed second-hand tires will all find purchasers sooner or later, the saving will be temporary at best.

Car manufacturers, however, will still be permitted to issue a fifth wheel. And there is nothing to prevent wheels from turning within wheels in the craniums of bureaucrats who issue orders like this one.

Judging by recent developments in Washington, the still small voice of conscience in that city is still small.

ECHOES OF THE PAST

(By Courier Staff Member)

Review of the news as it appeared in the Bucks County Gazette issue dated at Bristol Nov. 13, 1902. The Gazette, a weekly newspaper published in Bristol, was discontinued following its merger with the Courier.

NEWPORTVILLE—Jesse C. Everett was elected Clerk of Orphans' Court by 86 majority over his Republican opponent. He is the strongest candidate the Democrats could have placed on the ticket, his personality winning him many votes throughout the county. He is well and favorably known around this section of the county and no doubt will fill his office with credit and ability.

ATTLEBORO—Our borough was startled by the cry of fire on Monday evening when Edward Wenlock's barn was totally destroyed. A crowd quickly gathered but owing to the lack of water the fire made rapid headway and little could be saved except the livestock. About 150 bushels of potatoes and 50 cwt. of hay were destroyed, besides tools and implements. There was no insurance.

HULMEVILLE—The Alumni Association of the Hulmeville high school held a literary meeting in the assembly room on Saturday evening. President W. Kirk MacCorkle; secretary, Miss Ethel Prall. The meeting was opened with an address by the president. A literary journal by Miss Olive M. Hibbs was very instructive. Recitations by Miss Mabel Sheppard and a solo by Miss Fannie Fassett were enjoyed by all. An interesting feature of the evening was a debate—"Resolved, That the miners were justifiable in the recent strike." The participants were Clarence J. Buckman, Jesse G. Webster, Gertrude Everett, Prof. E. O. Batt, of Edgewood, and others. Following the debate was an address by Isaac VanArtsdalen. Refreshments were served by the high school pupils.

TULLYTOWN—The trolley track layers have broken through soil and the townsfolk are feeling greatly elated. Property adjoining the Main street through which the new road passes will feel the boom directly by higher valuation. But one of the best effects of the trolley will be encouragement to the people to brush themselves up a bit and to improve their homes. Farmers will reset the fences, trim the hedges, paint the houses and barns, and repair the corncribs, while those living in the town proper will grade the sidewalks, mow the yards and keep their homes in neat condition.

Preparatory to the inauguration of the free postal delivery the houses in Bristol are being renumbered. An agent has been engaged for several days correcting the existing numbers and placing new ones where none exist.

The Bristol Public School Board held its monthly meeting in the director's room in the high school.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

Muffled Opportunity

WASHINGTON, Apr. 9.—If it were not for one thing the Democrats in Washington would be giving an inspiring and almost unprecedented performance—to wit, that of a great national political party cleansing itself "before God and all the people"—as they would say on the Eastern Shore of Maryland. Nothing like it has happened in the memory of living politicians.

The almost invariable custom has been for the minority party to accuse the majority of corruption and wrongdoing while the majority vigorously defended, indignantly denied and rigidly resisted. This practice has been reversed in the recent exposures of the Fulbright and Kefauver committees. Both Senators Fulbright and Kefauver are not only Democrats but strong Democrats with long and impeccable party records. And, the majority of each committee was Democratic. The Fulbright investigation revealed a scandalous situation within the RFC involving various White House aides and Administration officials—all Democrats. It showed a complete absence among them of moral and ethical standards.

The Kefauver committee exposed the evil link between the criminal gangsters and the politicians in several great cities all of which are politically dominated by the Democrats. It is almost unanimously agreed that these two Democratic senators have rendered a notable public service. In some ways it has been a party service as well. But, if President Truman had co-operated it could have been a very great party service, indeed. Also, it would have been of very great service to Mr. Truman. For it seems reasonable to believe it would have thrilled people generally to have seen, following the exposures of these unsavory conditions in a Democratic Administration by two Democratic senators, building on last Thursday evening. Those present were: John K. Wildman, Edward H. Foster, Harvey S. Rue, M. D. Harrison, W. H. Hall, Sr., W. L. Joyce, D. A. Barrett, Fred Stuckert, Doron Green. The treasurer reported having paid all orders drawn at the last meeting and had received $19.75 for tuition from non-residents, and $325 from delinquent tax collector F. I. Kraft. The property committee reported having inspected the new hot water heater which has been installed in the Bath street school building and had accepted it. Howard R. Thorn-ton, secretary of the local board of civil service examiners, asked permission to hold the examination for mail carriers in one of the school rooms, which request was granted.

The first car that left Doylestown on Saturday morning, over the Newtown trolley road, jumped the track on a curve going up a hill about two miles from Newtown and ran part way across the field. The jolt threw several of the passengers from their seats and many of the workmen, who were passengers, were obliged to walk to Newtown as the car was not gotten on to the track for about two hours.

The report that a recently buried man had been unearthed by a man plowing on Burlington Island was investigated by Coroner Wells, of Burlington, who found that instead of its being a recently buried boy, it was a skull and a few human bones, probably the remains of an Indian that had been buried many years ago. The bones were found in clayey substance, and after being exposed to the air crumbled to dust.

E. T. Steel & Company are making preparation for the building of a big addition to their cassimere mills in Lafayette. The row of buildings upon Lafayette street, between the railroad and Canal street, known as the "stone row," has been purchased and the tenants warned to vacate. The buildings will be torn down to make room for the erection of the new structure, which will be a two-story brick 85 x 245 feet. Steel's mill, at present, is one of the largest in Bristol and employs about 600 hands.

Stanford K. Runyon, of Tullytown, worshipful master of Bristol Lodge, No. 25, F. and A. M., was chosen to represent the local lodge at the Washington celebration held at Masonic Temple, Philadelphia, on Wednesday of last week, when President Roosevelt was present. Mr. Runyon upon that occasion was decorated with the jewel of the office formerly worn by John Clark, the first master of the Bristol lodge when it was organized, March 15, 1780. The emblem is kept in the vault at the Farmers National Bank at Bristol.

The Democratic President promptly leapt to the support of these Democrats. It would have warmed them to have him commend the conscientious and constructive work accomplished and, to the limit of his very great power, vigorously act to clean up the whole revolting mess.

Think of the position of the Democratic party if that had happened; think also of the position of the Republican party! The former could truthfully assert that a certain amount of corruption and wrongdoing is inevitable in any party that has been in complete power for nineteen years—and that such should exist in this immensely expanded government under this Administration, after one great war had been fought and won and now when we are in the midst of a great national emergency involving the expenditures of uncounted billions, was natural and inescapable. Nevertheless, with a presidential election little more than a year off Democratic senators had uncovered the hidden corruption in their own party and a Democratic President had swiftly moved to root it out and punish those responsible.

This would have been an exhibition of almost unique political courage, and it would have left the Republicans with little to say. They could claim no credit for the exposed corruption nor for the cleanup that followed. They could not even claim to have prodded either the Democratic senators or the Democratic President into action. The whole business would have become a Democratic asset to which Democrats could "point with pride" in their 1952 platform. Nor could the Republicans indict. From the Democratic viewpoint the situation would have been ideal.

It seems a pity it did not work out that way. It is even more a pity that the sole reason it did not work out that way is because Mr. Truman, personally an honest man, did not throw his weight against the malefactors in his own party and join with the Democratic senators in a big Democratic cleanup. Instead, the Democratic President, after first describing the Fulbright committee's report as "assinine," then sought to whitewash the officials upon whose sordid acts it had thrown the light by describing them as "honorable men" of whose "moral and ethical standards" there was no reason to complain. Literally no one concurred in this Truman view. Nor is it exaggerating to say that in face of the admitted facts for the President thus to "stand by" these tarnished and shabby members of the White House staff and the Democratic National Committee shocked a great many people.

Certainly, too, it did not help the Democratic situation that his chief comment about the Kefauver committee, whose work genuinely—and deeply—stirred the nation, was to claim that he had moved against crime before it did a claim impossible to sustain. Beyond question, he spoiled the Democratic show. It is probable this will stand out as the classic example of a muffed opportunity. Not in generations is the partly likely to have another such.

"WASHINGTON REPORT"

By FULTON LEWIS, JR.

(Copyright, 1951
King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, Apr. 9.—Summer Welles, for six years Under-Secretary of State, has just turned his back on Alger Hiss, Secretary of State Dean Acheson, Defense Secretary George C. Marshall and the Communist tools in the State Department.

Writing in a recent issue of the Saturday Evening Post, Welles infers there is nothing more stupid in the world than the State Department's current policy on Asia. He says that nothing but incompetents represented this Government at Yalta, where the fate of Asia was decided in favor of the Soviet Union. Alger Hiss, now contemplating the pattern of prison bars on his cell floor in the Lewisburg, Pa., Federal Penitentiary, was the big brain on that deal.

After warming up on the Yalta sell-out, Welles lines up both barrels and lets fly at Defense Secretary Marshall. He notes that in 1946 the U. S. Government was urging Italian Prime Minister De Gasperi to boot the Communists out of the Italian government. De Gasperi did, and Italy escaped a revolution and Communist conquest.

The same year, Welles points out, President Truman sent Marshall, then a general, hustling to China to shove down Chiang Kai-Shek's throat orders to cooperate with the Communists by bringing them into his government. You know what happened when Chiang bought a piece of this brilliance. In short order he was wading towards Formosa, with the Communists in control of China.

All along, Welles says, liberal elements in this country have been apologizing for the State Department by charging that Chiang was corrupt, inefficient and oppressive. Welles wraps up this boloney in a neat bundle by asking what alternative this country had to backing up the Nationalist government? The answer, of course, was backing the Communist government, which is precisely what the State Department chowder heads did. Acheson, Philip Jessup and Owen Lattimore were the master minds behind the idea that Communists in China were better than Chiang. They are, for killing American soldiers.

Welles says that when he was in the State Department and Hitler was on the rampage, it shocked him one day to learn that practically nobody in the Department had ever read Mein Kampf. Hitler's book set out in great detail exactly what he was going to do in Europe. Today, Welles speculates, there probably are few if any State Department aides connected with the Government's policy in the Far East who fail, he will carry his case to the United States Supreme Court.

He charges that Darcy's rights have been violated in the "due process clause of the 14th Amendment of the U. S. Constitution."

Maggiotti asserted Darcy did not obtain a fair trial in Bucks County Court and that he was not placed on the stand in his own defense.

The trio was convicted of the fatal shooting of William Kelly, 38, a bystander, as they fled from a holdup in the Feasterville Inn on Dec. 22, 1947.

A fourth member of the gang, Felix Capone, then 16, of Philadelphia is serving a life term in Eastern State Penitentiary.

Awards Made From Starkey Trust Fund

PHILADELPHIA, Apr. 9.—Awards have been made to Austin C. and William P. Starkey, Jr., of the Starkey Farms, Morrisville. Each was awarded about $100,000 in an Orphans' Court accounting here of a trust fund created by their father, William P. Starkey, now of Lake Wales, Fla.

The trust estate, valued at $409,000, was set up by deed in 1923, with Corn Exchange National Bank & Trust Co., Mrs. Gertrude C. Starkey, mother of the two present beneficiaries, died last June 14. The sons then became entitled to payment of a fourth share each outright.

The remaining half continues in trust for them. Judge Charles Klein adjudicated the accounting and made awards.

have read Lenin's writings. This bustling Muscovite set forth in detail the doctrine of Soviet Communism on why and how China, India and southeast Asia would be conquered by the Soviet Union.

Nothing has been done in the State Department since 1945 to block Russia in achieving the conquest of Asia, Welles charges. In fact State Department officials have expedited the conquest, in his opinion.

The former Under-Secretary of State says Korea probably is the biggest bonehead play ever hatched in the Department. He says the division of Korea and the State Department's statement in January, 1950, that South Korea was "out of our line of defense," was a striped pants invitation to the North Korean and Chinese Communists to invade the country.

When Senators Robert A. Taft, William Knowland, Joe McCarthy and others level these same charges at the State Department, critics there ask: "When did they become experts on foreign affairs?" The Acheson clique also bemoans the fact that Senator Arthur Vandenberg is no longer active. He understood the State Department's problems and aims, these officials say. Well, I doubt that. Vandenberg may have been sympathetic to the problems involved in foreign affairs, but it's certain he never advocated turning China and most of Asia over to the Communists.

It will be interesting to see what Acheson has to say about Welles' charges. If any good newspaperman can get close enough to ask him. As a rule, Acheson's press conferences are cluttered up with his flannel mouthed stooges who usually decide at dinner the night before what questions they will put to him to avoid embarrassment and help out with the Department's propaganda. On this one, however, he shouldn't be let off the hook. It's too good.

You can slice the State Department's baloney as thin as you choose. But you always wind up with the same product. China got sold out. How Italy escaped is a mystery, except that Moscow apparently wasn't in a big hurry to drop the iron curtain around that country. China was different. Moscow wanted China quick. Moscow got China quick, and Welles makes it plain who helped. He expands on this theme in his new book, "Seven Decisions That Shaped History," published by Harper and Brothers. It ought to be required reading at the State Department, starting with Acheson and running right down through the ranks.

Teach Child Reverence in Church

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

LET me ask you to read the following to or with your child under eight or ten.

It can be fun to run and romp and shout out of doors in a place where we can safely play. We don't disturb other persons then and we are expected to make some noise. Sometimes, too, we can make noises with our mouths indoors without bothering anybody there. Usually our smiles and laughter help other persons feel cheerful and gay too.

But there are times and places when we don't laugh and shout, as when we are attending religious services at church. No matter where we are, we don't laugh and make noise when we or someone else is praying or worshipping God in any other way.

You see, when anyone is praying he is talking to God. He feels he is in the presence of God. You can see how unmanly it would be to do or say anything to interrupt any person who is talking to another person. How much more rude it would be to interrupt when a person is talking to God who is so much more important than any person in the world, who is the maker and giver of all things, the ruler of the world. Such rudeness would not only be bad manners, but irreverence.

No boy or girl smiles or laughs or runs about or makes noise when with or near other persons who are praying to God or worshipping Him. He does not unless he is too young to understand, or unless he forgets or doesn't care.

Of course, some children as old as you are act as if they were only babies, so unmanly they are. As they have not learned to have good manners toward other persons, we hardly would expect them to have good manners toward God. You know how much a person is annoyed at the child who is rude to him and his friends. And you can see how much more this person is annoyed at the child who is rude to him and God when these persons are praying silently or aloud. How very much, too, this unmanly and irreverent child must displease God himself.

Even if we were only thinking about how to make other persons like us better, we would try to be reverent when another person is praying or worshipping God in some other way. There is nothing we can do to cause more persons to dislike us than to run about, make noise, or laugh during prayer in our presence. When we are so rude and irreverent we prove that we don't care at all about what is most precious to other persons or how they feel.

Some boys and girls, even some big people, who are very polite and reverent in their own homes or church during worship, are rude and irreverent when in the presence of other persons who worship in a different manner. Yet these other persons are worshipping the same God. You and I can see why we should always show great respect when any person is praying or worshipping at any time or place, no matter how different his ways are from ours.

the invitation of Washington—not that of the command-in-chief on the scene.

Second came MacArthur's proposal that the Nationalist Chinese Armies in Formosa be released for a campaign on the mainland, with our support. This would take the initiative of the Korean-Chinese War away from our opponents, and raise the morale of the anti-Communists around the world.

To this serious proposal made, as was noted above, by the man entrusted by the United Nations with command of the Korean War, our President and his subordinates in the State Department and the Pentagon, do not appear to make even the courtesy of a reply.

Around the world freedom-loving peoples are wondering what the deal is that makes Washington so willing for American boys to fight against heavy odds in Korea—but makes them stubbornly unwilling for the Nationalist Chinese troops to be used for a counter-attack on the Chinese Reds.

Moreover, around the world races and countries are on the fence trying to decide whether the United Nations is worth their hearty support.

If President Truman is going to keep on belittling the United Nations by presuming to make its decisions for it, without even the courtesy of a consultation, the time will soon be here when no one in all the world will even pretend to take U. N. seriously.

NEWS OF SCHOOLS IN AREA...

All public, private and parochial schools in the Bristol area are invited to send news items for publication in this column which appears frequently.

Bristol Township

EDGELY PRIMARY

The combined first and second grade pupils from Edgely primary school have just finished planting over 100 crocus, narcissus, and daffodil bulbs around their school. The bulbs were donated by Mrs. Edmond Farris. It was necessary for the children to look through their science books to find out about bulbs and their care. After they had finished planting the bulbs, messengers were sent to the other groups to tell them about the garden and to ask them to help in caring for it. The youngsters are now interested in building an outdoor fireplace from the many rocks they have collected around the school grounds.

CROYDON

The fourth grade afternoon class of Croydon elementary school gave a hobby show recently. Hobbies showing various interests were presented. Among them was a collection of foreign and miniature dolls, a group of coins and medals, a rock collection, model airplanes, and a trained pigeon. The show was also enjoyed by the third grade.

The third and fourth grade morning classes are very much enthused over a skating party they are planning. This party will be held on Wednesday, April 18, at the Croydon skating arena from one to three p. m. Interested persons are invited to attend. Worthwhile group planning like this is encouraged for children who attend school on half sessions.

The Croydon P.T.A. members have presented a mimeographing machine to the Croydon school. Teachers and the children feel this will prove invaluable in helping them to prepare a variety of materials for school activities.

The third grade afternoon pupils are busy planning a spring project. They have decided to make a miniature house and garden. They will plant real flowers in their garden so that it will continue to grow. Each child is working on his own contribution to this project.

Miss Dorothy Reichter, Mayfair, is substituting for the remainder of the school year in the community building. She is replacing Mrs. Grace Keech, who is taking a leave of absence from school work. Miss Reichter is a graduate in elementary education from Temple University, Phila. She received her B. S. degree in February.

MAPLE SHADE
Maple Shade school has welcomed five new pupils this past week. They are: Charles and Jane Huber, Carl Klein, "Billy" Aitken, and Nancy Clare. Their new classmates and teachers are trying to make them feel at home.

GENERAL NEWS
Miss Marie Maxwell, known as "The Story Lady," will visit Bristol township schools for the next few weeks. She will tell stories to each class following recommendations of the individual teachers. The kind of work being done in each room is the deciding factor on the type of story told. She plans to tell animal stories, Indian, fairy, pioneer, Latin American, Uncle Remus, health, historical, nature, and spring stories. Miss Maxwell is a specialist in library and children's literature fields. The children and teachers are enthusiastic about her arrival.

Forum on County Growth

LANGHORNE, April 9

At the April meeting of the Neshaminy PTA, to be held Tuesday evening at the high school, a forum will be held discussing the problems the community will be facing during the next few years as a result of the expected increase in population. A panel of experts on civic and industrial planning will be heard, following which the meeting will be thrown open for general discussion.

As in previous meetings of the Neshaminy PTA, which have followed a sort of combined town meeting and give away radio program pattern, prizes will be given to the first ten people on their feet with questions or opinions.

Also coming up at the meeting will be election of officers for the 1951-52 term. John Mladjen has been nominated for the office of president, Harry Ticehurst for first vice-president, Walter Rothenback for second vice-president, Donald Hunsberger for treasurer, and Mrs. Ann Carber for secretary. Space will be provided on the ballots for any additional nominations made at the meeting.

Walter Weir, retiring president, is expected to outline some of the "unfinished business" still facing the PTA now that the building site for the new school has been bought. It will be the last meeting at which he presides, after three terms in the presidency, the new officers taking over for the final meeting of the year in May.

Mr. Weir, it will be recalled, was first elected to office to develop the town meeting type of program which the Neshaminy PTA has so successfully followed. The Tuesday meeting, scheduled for eight o'clock, will undoubtedly uncover a number of subjects for fuller discussion at future meetings. Following the meeting, refreshments will be served in the school cafeteria.

his leadership and being an all-around good cadet." James Gallone, Jr., ill with rheumatic fever, was unable to be present. Mr. Brodie said: "The doctors say that he will be away from the corps for at least a year, and he has been granted a leave of absence. W. Reynolds Clay will soon be leaving for the service and the corps will miss him as he has been a very good first lieutenant-commander. We all wish him lots of luck and sorry to lose him but his country comes first." Mr. Brodie presented Clay with a gift.

Other gifts presented were as follows: John Pica for the work he has done in the corps; James Wright presented a gift from the cadets to Commander Brodie; Arlene Pittman presented the gift from the cadets to Mrs. Charles Brodie; John Pica presented a going-away gift from the cadets to Reynolds Clay, and Mr. Rathke presented the gift from the Post and Cadet Committee to Clay.

Commander Kornstedt introduced Louis G. Feldman, commander, department of Pennsylvania V. F. W., and presented him with a plexiglas gavel, as a gift from the Post.

In addressing the group Commander Feldman said: "It is a great pleasure to be here tonight and I wish to take this time to thank the post for the beautiful gavel. When I use it I will be thinking of the Chester W. Terchon Post."

"A cadet corps is made up of the youth of a community and will be our future leaders of the country. I have seen the corps several times and the last time was in Morrisville. I was very proud of the showing they made there and I am sure any of you who saw them were also proud of them. They are a fine looking corps and one any post can be proud of.

"There are a lot of boys entering the service of their country." Commander Feldman stated. "This is because a little fighting is going on in a little country. A lot of people are wondering why. The answer is that we are fighting for a way of life that I believe in. The right for you to live your life, the right to work and go to school where you want to."

"Not so long ago," Commander Feldman said, "I visited the secret map room in the Pentagon Building and did you know that our flag is in every corner of the globe. This means our troops are all over the world. The United States has become the greatest nation in the world. In history many nations have ruled the world and fallen, but we do not want this to happen to this great nation. To make sure that it does not happen to this nation we must be alert and willing to fight for our way of life."

In closing, Commander Feldman said: "You boys and girls of the cadet corps will be the leaders of the community tomorrow and the training you receive now in the corps will help each and every one of you to be better citizens and leaders of this great nation."

Mr. Rathke introduced the cadet committee as follows: Raymond Tomlinson, chairman; Maurice G. Wildman, Clarence A. Schweizer, Robert J. McDonald, and Kenneth K. Dyer. The benediction was then given by the Rev. Andrew G. Solla, pastor, Presbyterian Church of our Saviour; after which a show and dancing was enjoyed by every one.

Members of the Cadet Corps are as follows: First Lieutenant Commander W. Reynolds Clay, Second Lieut. Commander John Pica; Color Guards: Lieut. Arlene Pittman; Corp. Betty Gallone, Lorraine Mullin, Francis Stallone, Marie Rubino, Rita Rubino, Marie Waters, Mary Gallone, and Regina Lawrence; Majorettes Judy Wright, Patsy Downing, and Mary Lattanzi; Jr. Drum Major, Charles G. Brodie.

The Loyal Order of Moose has taken the first match in a best out of three series in the finals of the Clubmen's Association Dart League play-offs. All three games in this match were very close. The Moose won the first game by a 204 to 193 score. The second game was a thriller with the Mutual Aid winning out by a 228 to 227 count. The final game of the evening gave the Moose the match as they won by a 203 to 197 score. "Grumpy" Grimes was high scorer for the winners as he pitched a 54 score in the second game, while Lutz had a high single for the night with 56 points.

The second match in the playoff series will be played Tuesday evening, April 10th, at the Moose home. If a third match is necessary it will be played at the neutral location of the Veterans of Foreign Wars home Wednesday evening, April 11th.

A meeting of all dart team captains in the league and all league committees will be held Friday evening April 13th in conjunction with the regular Clubmen's Association meeting at the Moose home.
